

The Reservation of Rights Letter

The purpose of this procedure is to help claims adjusters mandated by an insurer in situations where a problem may arise with respect to the insurance coverage provided by the insurer. The procedure provides the framework for the adjuster's duty to inform the insured of the potential problem in a manner consistent with the adjuster's legal and ethical obligations. It recommends that a Reservation of Rights Letter be remitted to the insured to ensure that the insured is aware of the insurer's intentions.

The Reservation of Rights Letter is a letter by which the insurer, through his mandatary, the claims adjuster, notifies the insured or a third party that a more in-depth investigation into the circumstances of the loss is required and that the insurer reserves the right to claim restrictions to, or exclusions from, the policy in order to refuse indemnification of the insured.

In the absence of such a letter, the insurer could be held liable to compensate the insured or the third party. As a result of the insurer's conduct or even its silence, it would be deemed to have waived its right to invoke an exclusion.

The Reservation of Rights Letter Procedure flows, most notably, from the obligations provided for under sections 16, 19, 21 and 31 of the Code of Ethics of claims adjusters. This procedure is also intended to ensure compliance with sections 2139 and 2470 of the Civil Code of Québec. These sections appear at the end of this procedure.

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE RESERVATION OF RIGHTS LETTER AND THE NON-WAIVER AGREEMENT

The Non-Waiver Agreement is a document that resembles the Reservation of Rights Letter, and is used under the same circumstances; however the purpose of the non-waiver agreement is to protect the insurer's interests by obtaining the acknowledgement of the insured (or the claimant) that:

- he has been notified of a potential problem related to the eligibility of his insurance claim;
- he recognizes the insurer's right to continue investigating and understands that the extra delay required does not mean that the insurer has agreed to cover the loss;
- he recognizes the insurer's right to potentially refuse compensation or even demand reimbursement of costs incurred up to that point.

The word AGREEMENT implies that a party recognizes the right of another party to do or not do something. On the other hand, a LETTER is a method of communicating information, a position, or a fact, without asking the other party to consent to or forfeit a right.

Please note: only claims adjusters can have someone sign a non-waiver agreement.<sup>1</sup> Those supplying services in the wake of a loss may not do so, nor are such suppliers allowed to give a reservation of rights letter.

CIRCUMSTANCES UNDER WHICH A RESERVATION OF RIGHTS LETTER IS

It is recommended, for example, if:

- the claims adjuster has doubts concerning the cause of the loss and further investigation is required;
- the claims adjuster has doubts concerning statements made by the insured or the claimant;
- the insured has delayed notifying the insurer of the loss;
- an aggravation of the risk has not been declared;
- the policy potentially excludes this loss.

A Reservation of Rights letter is not always appropriate. It is therefore not advisable to systematically send it or present it during the first visit “just in case”.

Remember - the Reservation of Rights letter:

- should not be used systematically for all claims;
- is not recommended if a policy exclusion clearly applies;
- should not be given during the very first meeting with the insured.

THE CLAIMS ADJUSTER MUST

1. Explain

- that the adjuster’s role is to investigate the loss on behalf of the insurer, and manage the claim;
- the possibility that the loss might not be covered;
- the need for a more in-depth investigation;
- the estimated time required to carry out the investigation (and any changes or extensions in that estimate).

2. Communicate

- give a copy of the Reservation of Rights letter to the insured or the interested party;
- obtain proof of delivery or transmission of the Reservation of Rights letter (send by registered mail or request an acknowledgement of receipt from the insured). It should be noted that proof of delivery does not signify agreement with the contents of the Reservation of Rights letter.

3. Follow-up

The claims adjuster's duty to inform continues beyond sending or giving the Reservation of Rights letter. For example, the claims adjuster must keep the insured (or claimant) aware of developments related to the investigation and/or the additional time needed to make the decision, and he must follow-up diligently and proactively.

If information is given verbally, the claims adjuster must remember to properly note in the record all information provided to or by the insured or a third party, in particular the date and the substance of the first discussion regarding the possibility that the insurer would reserve its rights.

LEGISLATIVE SOURCES

The Reservation of Rights procedure flows, most notably, from the obligations provided for under sections 16, 19, 21 and 31 of the Code of Ethics of claims adjusters, as follows:

16. No claims adjuster may, in any manner whatsoever, make any representations that are false, misleading or likely to be misleading.
19. Claims adjusters must notify the parties involved, as well as any person that they know has an interest in the compensation requested, of any refusals or any measures that the insurer intends to take regarding a claim.
21. Claims adjusters must provide the insured with the explanations necessary for them to understand the settlement of the claim and services rendered to them.
31. Claims adjusters must notify the client promptly of any information in their possession that could affect decisions regarding the settlement of a claim or reduce or compromise an entitlement to compensation, such as breaches of contract, fraud, misrepresentations and the forging of evidence.

This procedure is also intended to ensure compliance with sections 2139 and 2470 of the Civil Code of Québec:

2139. During the mandate, the mandatary is bound to inform the mandator, at his request or where circumstances warrant it, of the stage reached in the performance of the mandate.

The mandatary shall inform the mandator without delay that he has fulfilled his mandate.

2470. The insured shall notify the insurer of any loss which may give rise to an indemnity, as soon as he becomes aware of it. Any interested person may give such notice.

An insurer who has not been so notified may, where he sustains injury therefrom, set up against the insured any clause of the policy providing for forfeiture of the right to indemnify in such a case.

IMPORTANT REMINDER

- The Reservation of Rights letter must indicate the insurer's name, the policy number, and the event/loss in question.
- Without having to provide detailed reasons, the Letter must be specific enough that the insured or a third party clearly understands the situation, and in particular, that compensation may not be paid for the loss.
- The insured must also be informed of the potential consequences of the Reservation of Rights letter: for example, he could have to reimburse sums already paid by the insurer.

The ChAD has created a model Reservation of Rights letter, which is available on chad.ca.
